

-1 You Were the Pride of Our Hearts

It's so difficult to let you go
Though death's left us no other choice
We're mourning the loss of never seeing you again
Of never hearing your precious voice

It seems that in life there are certain times
Which are more than 'simply unfair'
When our hearts search out for better answers
But cannot seem to find them there

And such is the case at your passing
Contemplating the briefness of your life
All the great things that you still would have done
If you'd been granted a little more time

It isn't difficult to envision the possibilities
For look at what you'd already done
The difference you'd made in so many lives
In all that you had become

Perhaps you were simply too good for this life
So God called you back to Heaven
That your life needed no further testament
Than the goodness you'd already given
Than the service you'd already given

But regardless of the reason
For why you had to depart
We will miss you every single day of our lives
For you were the pride of our hearts

Thank you for being our example
Inspiring us through your courage and drive
We'll cherish all the precious memories
That you lovingly created in our lives

For truly, your life reflected
A wisdom that few, so young, can see
Yet your humbleness kept you from knowing
The legacy your life would leave

Still we'll miss you most for your love and your smiles
For they made our world seem so bright

And we'll treasure each memory and moment
Every way you blessed our pathways in life

And though we can't quite understand
Why so soon you had to part
We're eternally grateful for the gift of your life
For you were the pride of our hearts!
You were truly the pride of our hearts!

How Do I Say Goodbye to a Brother Like You?

How do I say goodbye to a brother
That I love as much as you?
It's hard to believe that you're really gone
I'm still hoping it isn't true

Wishing this sorrow was just a dream
From which we'd wake up to find
You still here...In life...With us
That I could turn back this heartache in time

For I just can't bear to do it
Say "Goodbye" to a brother like you
Few others have shared so much of my life
Or know me as well as you

I think upon the memories we shared
When we were very young
You teased me, played with me, and laughed with me
When our lives had just begun

When we shared simple thoughts and simple dreams
And were lost in childhood's plans
Dreaming up our next adventures
In the vivid ways only children can

And as we grew up, there were more special moments
That proved the depth of your love and care
As you helped me through my difficult times
When I needed you...You were always there

My life has been guided and truly blessed
In so many ways by your loving soul
And I'll miss you more than I could ever say
Or that you could ever know

Still the feeble words need expression
Sharing my heartfelt gratitude
Declaring all that you meant to me
And my endless love for you

-3 We Didn't Get To Say Goodbye

We didn't get to say goodbye
We're devastated that you're gone
We'd have done anything to keep you here with us
Right here where you belong

We didn't know that life would take
Such an unexpected path
That you'd be separated from us so soon
Heart-breaking reality we struggle to grasp

And bitter though our losing you has been
And so profound is the pain that we bear
We're sadder still at no chance for goodbye
No final expression of our deep love and care

Yet trusting that you're not too far away
Still sensing that your Spirit lingers near We'll say our goodbyes in our words and thoughts
Having faith that each one you'll hear

First know that you are loved in the truest of ways
So deep that only our hearts can give expression
And you'll be forever surrounded by our love
For we'll send it with you to heaven

Please know you'll be cherished by each one of us
For your example and kindness we'll treasure
We understand now how your life was a gift
That was meant to bless us forever

And though we'll miss you terribly
We want your spirit to be free
Free to enjoy all the wonders of heaven
Not bound to us in our grief

So watch over us with happiness from heaven
For we'll remember you with mem'ries so sweet
And we'll bravely endure 'til you're with us again
When our hearts will be healed and complete

For surely one day we'll be together again
In God's arms and in heaven with you
For death cannot conquer a love that's as strong
As the love that we all feel for you

-4 I only have a picture now

I only have a picture now,
A frozen piece of time,
To remind me of how it was,
When you were here, and mine.

I see your smiling eyes,
Each morning when I wake,
I talk to you, and place a kiss,
Upon your lovely face.

How much I miss you being here,
I really cannot say,
The ache is deep inside my heart,
And never goes away.

I hear it mentioned often,
That time will heal the pain,
But if I'm being honest,
I hope it will remain.

I need to feel you constantly,
To get me through the day,
I loved you so very much,
Why did you go away?

The angels came and took you,
That really wasn't fair,
They took my one and only Son,
My future life. My heir.

If only they had asked me,
If I would take your place,
I would have done so willingly,

Leaving you this world to grace.

You should have had so many years,
To watch your life unfold,
And in the mist of this,
Watch me, your Mum grow old!

I hope you're watching from above,
At the daily tasks I do,
And let there be no doubt at all,
I really do love you.

-5 My Brother

Gone so fast.
Now all we have
Are memories
Of our past.

You are loved by so many.
You might not
Have known,
But in our hearts
Is where
You have grown.

The memories
I have throughout
The years
Will last forever with Laughter and tears.

We shared our Birthday
Since I was five.
My wish now will be
To have you back healthy
And alive.

I will miss you
Oh so much.
So will all
The lives that
You have Touched.

I can't say goodbye.
I can't accept
Your death.
You will live in my heart
Forever
Until my last breath

Day's ending

I look towards the silent hills
At closing of the day,
As vaporous veils of silver mist
Descend upon the bay.
Through moving clouds, the pearly moon
Shines from a distant place,
Reflecting in the water's depths
Her opalescent face.
The flowers close their petalled cups,
The wind is just a sigh,
A lonesome bird on homeward flight
Lets out a plaintive cry.
Trees stand out in silhouette
Against the fading light,
As dusk gives way to evening shadows,
Merging into night.
Everything seems hushed and still,
Bathed in afterglow.
Then one by one, the stars appear,
And gaze on earth below.
A time to quietly reflect,
To meditate or pray,

As calming peace steals on my soul,
And daylight slips away.

From the Tempest

Our revels now are ended. These our actors,
As I foretold you, were all spirits and are Melted into air, into thin air:
And, like the baseless fabric of this vision,
The cloud-capp'd towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve
And, like this insubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind. We are such stuff
As dreams are made on, and our little life
Is rounded with a sleep

William Shakespeare (1564 – 1616)

3

At rest

Think of me as one at rest,
For me you should not weep
I have no pain no troubled thoughts
For I am just asleep
The living, thinking me that was,
Is now forever still
And life goes on without me now,
As time forever will.

If your heart is heavy now
Because I've gone away
Dwell not long upon it friend
For none of us can stay
Those of you who liked me,
I sincerely thank you all
And those of you who loved me,
I thank you most of all.

And in my fleeting lifespan,
As time went rushing by
I found some time to hesitate,
To laugh, to love, to cry
Matters it now if time began
If time will ever cease?
I was here, I used it all,
And now I am at peace.

Word

There is a word, of grief the sounding token.

There is a word bejewelled with bright tears.

The saddest word fond lips have ever spoken,

A little word that breaks the chain of years.

It's utterance must ever bring emotion,

The memories it crystals cannot die.

'Tis known in every land, on every ocean,

It is

Goodbye

The ship

I am standing upon that foreshore.

A ship at my side spreads her white sails to the morning breeze and starts for the blue ocean.

She is an object of beauty and strength and I stand and watch her until at length she hangs down like a speck of white cloud just where the sea and sky come down and mingle at the horizon.

Then someone at my side says: 'There! She's gone!

'Gone where?'

'Gone from my sight, that's all.'

She is just as large in mast and spar and hull as ever she was when she left my side; just as able to bear her load of living freight to her place of destination.

Her diminished size is in me, not in her.

And just at that moment when someone at my side says,

'There! She's gone!' there are other eyes watching her coming, and other voices ready to take up the glad shout

'Here she comes!'

And that is dying.

The plan of the Master Weaver

My life is but a weaving between the Lord and me;
I may not choose the colours,
He knows what they should be for He can view the pattern upon the upper side, while I can see it only on this, the under side....

Sometimes He weaveth sorrow, which seemeth strange to me, but I will trust His judgement, and work on faithfully,
'tis He who fills the shuttle, and He knows what is best,
so I shall weave in earnest, leaving to Him the rest....

Not till the loom is silent and the shuttles cease to fly shall God unroll the canvas and explain the reason why – the dark threads are as needed in the Weaver's skilful hand as the threads of gold and silver in the pattern He has planned.

Benjamin Malachi Franklin (1882 – 1965)

7

Adieu and au revoir

As you love me, let there be
No mourning when I go,-
No tearful eyes, no hopeless sighs,
No woe, nor even sadness.
Indeed I would not have you sad,
For I myself shall be full of glad,
With the high triumphant gladness
Of a soul made free.
Of Gods sweet liberty

No windows darkened for my own
Will be flung wide as ne'er before,
To catch the radiant in pour
Of love that shall in full atone
For all the ills that I have done.
And the good things left undone
No voices hushed: my own, full flushed
With an immortal hope, will rise
In ecstasies of new born bliss
And joyful melodies.

Rather, or your sweet courtesy,
Rejoice with me
At my soul's losing from captivity.

Wish me 'Bon Voyage' as you do a friend
Whose joyous visit finds it's happy end
And bid me both 'Adieu' and 'Au revoir'

Since, though I come no more
I shall be waiting there to greet you
At His Door.

And, as the feet of the bearers tread
The ways I trod,
Think not of me as dead, but rather –
Happy, thrice happy, she whose course is sped!
He has gone home.

John Oxenham (1852 – 1941)

Regret not me

Regret not me;
Beneath the sunny tree
I lie uncaring, sleeping peacefully.
Swift as the light
I flew my faery flight;
Ecstatically I moved, and feared no night.
I did not know
That heydays fade and go,
But deemed that what was would be always so.

I skipped at morn
Between the yellowing corn,
Thinking it good and glorious to be born.
I ran at eves
Among the piled-up sheaves,
Dreaming, "I grieve not, therefore nothing grieves."
Now soon will come
The apple, pear, and plum
And hinds will sing, and autumn insects hum.

Again you will fare
To cider-makings rare,
And junketings; but I shall not be there.
Yet gaily sing
Until the pewter ring
These songs we sang when we went gipsying.
And lightly dance

Some triple-timed romance
In coupled figures, and forget mischance;

And mourn not me
Beneath the yellowing tree;
For I shall mind not, slumbering peacefully

Thomas Hardy (1840 – 1928)

9

I'm free

Don't grieve for me now that I'm free,
I'm following paths God made for me.
I took His hand, I heard Him call,
Then turned and bid farewell to all

I could not stay another day,
To laugh, to love, to sing, to play.
Tasks left undone must stay that way,
I found my peace at close of day.

If my parting left a void,
Then fill it with remembered joy,
A friendship shared, a laugh, a kiss,
Yes, these things I too will miss.

Be not burdened deep with sorrow,
I wish you sunshine of tomorrow.
My life's been full, I've savoured much.
Good friends, good times, a loved one's touch.

Perhaps my time seemed all too brief,
Don't lengthen it now with undue grief.
Lift up your heart and share with me,
God wants me now
He set me free.

Farewell to Thee!

Farewell to Thee! But not farewell
To all my fondest thoughts of thee;
Within my heart they still shall dwell:
And they shall cheer and comfort me.

Life seems more sweet that Thou didst live
And men more true Thou wert one;
Nothing is lost that Thou didst give,
Nothing destroyed that Thou hast done.

Anne Bronte (1820 – 1849)

The unknown shore

Sometime at Eve when the tide is low
I shall slip my moorings and sail away
With no response to a friendly hail
In the silent hush of the twilight pale
When the night stoops down to embrace the day
And the voices call in the water's flow

Sometime at Eve when the water is low
I shall slip my moorings and sail away.
Through purple shadows
That darkly trail o'er the ebbing tide
And the Unknown Sea,
And a ripple of waters to tell the tale
Of a lonely voyager sailing away
To mystic isles
Where at anchor lay
The craft of those who had sailed before
O'er the Unknown Sea
To the Unknown Shore

A few who watched me sail away
Will miss my craft from the busy bay
Some friendly barques were anchored near
Some loving souls my heart held dear
In silent sorrow will drop a tear
But I shall have peacefully furled my sail
In mooring sheltered from the storm and gale
And greeted friends who had sailed before

To the Unknown Shore

Elizabeth Clark Hardy (1794 – 1854)

Traditional Indian prayer

When I am dead

Cry for me a little

Think of me sometimes

But not too much.

Think of me now and again

As I was in life

At some moments it's pleasant to recall

But not for too long.

Leave me in peace

And I shall leave you in peace

And while you live

Let your thoughts be with the living.

For whom the bell tolls

No man is an island,

Entire of itself.

Each is a piece of the continent,

A part of the main.

If a clod be washed away by the sea,

Europe is the less.

As well as if a promontory were.

As well as if a manor of thine own

Or of thine friend's were.
Each man's death diminishes me,
For I am involved in mankind.
Therefore, send not to know
For whom the bell tolls,
It tolls for thee.

John Donne (1572 – 1631)

14

As the mist leaves no scar

As the mist leaves no scar
On the dark green hill,
So my body leaves no scar
On you, nor ever will.

When wind and hawk encounter,
What remains to keep?
So you and I encounter
Then turn, then fall to sleep.

As many nights endure
Without a moon or star,
So will we endure
When one is gone and far.

Leonard Cohen

The definitive journey

...and I will leave,
But the birds will stay, singing:
and my garden will stay, with it's green tree,
with it's water well.
Many afternoons the sky will be blue and placid,
and the bells in the belfry, will chime,
as they are chiming this very afternoon,

The people who have loved me will pass away,
and the town will burst anew every year
But my spirit will always wander, nostalgic, in the same peaceful corner of my garden

Juan Ramon Jimenez (1881 – 1958)

Requiem

Under the wide and starry sky
Dig the grave and let me lie:
Glad did I live and gladly die,
And I laid me down with a will.

This be the verse you 'grave for me:
Here he lies where he long'd to be;
Home is the sailor, home from the sea,
And the hunter home from the hill.

Robert Louis Stevenson (1850 – 1894)

The tide recedes

The tide recedes
But leaves behind
Bright seashells on the sand
The sun goes down
But gentle warmth
Still lingers on the land
The music stops
And yet it echoes on
In sweet refrains
For every joy that passes
Something beautiful remains

Feel no guilt in laughter - Anon

Feel no guilt in laughter, he'd know how much you care.
Feel no sorrow in a smile that he is not here to share.
You cannot grieve forever; he would not want you to.
He'd hope that you could carry on the way you always do.
So, talk about the good times and the way you showed you cared,
The days you spent together, all the happiness you shared.

Let memories surround you. A word someone may say
Will suddenly recapture a time, an hour, a day,
That brings him back as clearly as though he were still here,
And fills you with the feeling that he is always near.
For if you keep those moments, you will never be apart
And he will live forever locked safely within your heart.

Death is nothing at all

Death is nothing at all.

I have only slipped away to the next room.

I am I and you are you.

Whatever we were to each other,

That, we are still.

Call me by my old familiar name.

Speak to me in the easy way which you have always used.

Put no difference in your tone.

Wear no forced air of solemnity or sorrow.

Laugh as we always laughed at the little jokes we enjoyed together.

Let my name be ever the household word that it always was.

Let it be spoken without effect.

Without a trace of a shadow in it.

Life means all that it ever meant.

It is the same as it ever was;

There is unbroken continuity.

Why should I be out of mind

Because I am out of sight?

I am waiting for you, for an interval,

Somewhere very near, just around the corner.

All is well.

Henry Scott Holland (1847 – 1918)

20

I was loved, therefore I am

I was loved, therefore I am;
And in being loved, I am treasured.
When I peeled away my layers,
And all that was left was my essence,
The bareness of me,
I was still loved.

I was loved, therefore I am;
And in being loved, I was able to grow.
In my mistakes held,
In my successes celebrated,
I was always loved.

I was loved, therefore I am;
And in being loved, I learned to love.
In the sun filled day,
In the ecstasy of the night,
I was loved and loved others.

To be loved is all you need:
I was loved...and so, I will always be.

From Adonais

He is made one with Nature: there is heard
His voice in all her music, from the moan
Of thunder, to the song of night's sweet bird;
He is a presence to be felt and known
In darkness and in light, from herb and stone,
Spreading itself where'er that Power may move
Which has withdrawn his being to its own;
Which wields the world with never-wearied love,
Sustains it from beneath, and kindles it above.

He is a portion of the loveliness
Which once he made more lovely.

Percy Bysshe Shelley (1792 – 1822)

22

Not in vain

If I can stop one heart from breaking,
I shall not live in vain:
If I can ease one life the aching,
Or cool one pain,
Or help one fainting robin
Unto his nest again,
I shall not live in vain.

Emily Dickinson (1830 – 1886)

23

The way of love

If I speak in the tongues of men and of angels, but have not love, I am a noisy gong or a clanging cymbal.

And if I have prophetic powers and understand all mysteries and all knowledge, and if I have faith enough to move mountains, but have not love, I am nothing.

If I give away all that I have and deliver my body to be burned, but have not love, I gain nothing.

Love is patient and kind; love is not jealous or boastful; it is not arrogant or rude.

Love does not insist on its own way; it is not irritable or resentful; it does not rejoice at wrong, but rejoices in the right.

Love bears all things, believes all things, hopes all things, endures all things.

Love never ends.

As for prophecies, they will pass away;

As for tongues, they will cease,

As for knowledge, it will pass away.

For our knowledge is imperfect and our prophecy is imperfect; but when the perfect comes, the imperfect will fade away.

When I was a child, I thought like a child, I reasoned like a child; when I became a man, I gave up childish ways. For now we see in a mirror dimly, but then we shall see face to face. Now I know in part; then I shall understand fully, even as I have been fully understood.

So faith, hope and love abide, these three; but the greatest of these is love.

1 Corinthians 13

Love lives on

Those we love are never really lost to us – we feel them in so many special ways – through friends they always cared about and dreams they left behind, in beauty that they added to our days... in words of wisdom we still carry with us and memories that never will be gone...
Those we love are never really lost to us –
For everywhere their special love lives on.

Still there

A whisper in the wind,
A shadow on the wall,
The feeling that someone is there
But no answer to your call.

A kind of warmth when days are cold,
A hand held out to guide,
A glow that lights the darkest night,
A presence by your side.

If these things happen, curb your fears
Just smile a knowing smile
It's me, you see, watching over you
Across the coming years.

If I should go

If I should go before the rest of you,
Break not a flower, nor inscribe a stone,
Nor, when I'm gone, speak in a Sunday voice,
But be the usual selves that I have known.

Weep if you must, parting is hell,
But life goes on, so sing as well.

Joyce Grenfell (1910 – 1979)

Do not stand

Do not stand at my grave and weep,
I am not there; I do not sleep.

I am a thousand winds that blow,
I am the diamond glint on snow,
I am the sun on ripened grain
I am in gentle autumn rain,

When you awaken in the morning hush
I am swift uplifting rush
Of quiet birds in circling flight
I am the star-shine at night

Do not stand at my grave and cry
I do not die

The fallen limb

A limb has fallen from the family tree.
I keep hearing a voice that says,
"Grieve not for me.
Remember the best times,
The laughter, the song.
The good life I lived
While I was strong.
Continue my heritage,
I'm counting on you.
Keep smiling and surely
The sun will shine through.
My mind is at ease,
My soul is at rest.
Remembering all,
How I truly was blessed.
Continue traditions,
No matter how small.
Go on with your life,
Don't worry about falls
I miss you all dearly,
So keep up your chin.
Until the day comes
We're together again.'

I fall asleep in the full and certain hope
That my slumber shall not be broken;

Of those I loved...

Thy will be done

You left quietly without a fuss
You always had a smile to share
A laugh, a joke
A time to care

A wonderful nature
Warm and true
These are the memories
I have of you

A beautiful life
Came to an end
You died as you lived
Everyone's friend

You gave me year's of happiness
Then sorrow came with tears
You left me lovely memories
I will treasure through the years

Dorothy Frances Gurney (1858 – 1932)

This heritage

They are not dead,
Who leave us this great heritage
Of remembering joy.

They still live in our hearts,
In the happiness we knew,
In the dreams we shared.

They still breathe,
In the lingering fragrance, windblown,
From their favourite flowers.

They still smile in the moonlight's silver,
And laugh in the sunlight's sparking gold.

They still speak in the echoes of the words
We've heard them say again and again.

They still move,
In the rhythm of waving grasses,
In the dance of the tossing branches.

They are not dead;
Their memory is warm in our hearts,
Comfort in our sorrow.

They are not apart from us,
But a part of us,

For love is eternal,
And those we love shall be with us
Throughout all eternity.

You can shed tears

You can shed tears that he is gone or you can smile because he has lived.

You can close your eyes and pray that he'll come back or you can open your eyes and see all he's left.

Your heart can be empty because you can't see him or you can be full of the love you shared.

You can turn your back on tomorrow and live yesterday or you can be happy for tomorrow because of yesterday.

You can remember him and only that he's gone or you can cherish his memory and let it live on.

You can cry and close your mind, be empty and turn your back, or you can do what he'd want: smile: open your eyes, love and go on.

Remember me:

To the living, I am gone.

To the sorrowful, I will never return.

To the angry, I was cheated,

But to the happy, I am at peace,

And to the faithful, I have never left.

I cannot be seen, but I can be heard.

So as you stand upon a shore, gazing at a beautiful sea – remember me.

As you look in awe at a mighty forest and its grand majesty – remember me.

As you look upon a flower and admire its simplicity – remember me.

Remember me in your heart, your thoughts, your memories of the times we loved, the times we cried, the times we fought, the times we laughed.

For if you always think of me, I will have never gone.

Afterglow

I'd like the memory of me to be a happy one.

I'd like to leave an afterglow of smiles when life is done.

I'd like to leave an echo whispering softly down the ways,

Of happy times, and laughing times, and bright and sunny days.

I'd like tears of those who grieve, to dry before the sun

Of happy memories that I leave, when life is done.

Four candles

The first candle represents our grief.

The pain of losing you is intense

It reminds us of the depth of our love for you

The second candle represents our courage.

To confront our sorrow,

To comfort each other,

To change our lives.

The third candle we light in your memory.

For the times we laughed,

The times we cried,

The times we were angry with each other,

The silly things you did,

The caring and joy you gave us.

The fourth candle we light for our love.

We light this candle that your light will always shine,

As we enter this sad time and share this day of remembrance with family and friends.

We cherish the special place in our hearts

That will always be reserved for you.

We thank you for the gift

Your living brought to each of us.

That man is a success

That man is a success

Who has lived well,

Laughed often and loved much;

Who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of children;

Who has filled his niche and accomplished his task;

Who leaves the world better than he found it,
Whether by an improved poppy,
A perfect poem, or a rescued soul;

Who has never lacked appreciation of Earth's beauty or failed to express it;

Who looked for the best in others.
And gave the best he had.

The true joy of life

This is the true joy of life,
The being used for a purpose
Recognised by yourself as a might one-
The being a force of nature instead of a feverish,
Selfish little clod of ailments and grievances
Complaining that the world will not devote itself to making you happy.

I am of the opinion that my life belongs to the whole community
And as long as I live it is my privilege to do it for whatever I can.

I want to be thoroughly used up when I die,
For the harder I work the more I live.
I rejoice in life for its own sake,
Life is no 'brief candle' to me; it is a sort of splendid torch
Which I have got hold of for the moment,
And I want to make it burn as brightly as possible
Before handing it on to future generations.

George Bernard Shaw (1856 – 1950)

The parting glass

Oh all the time that e'er I spent,
I spent it in good company;
And any harm that e'er I've done,
I trust it was to none but me;
May those I've loved through all the years
Have memories now they'll e'er recall.
So fill to me the parting glass,

Goodnight and joy be with you all.
Of all the comrades that e'er I had
Are sorry for my going away;
And all the loved ones that e'er I had
Would wish me one more day to stay,
But since it falls unto my lot
That I should leave and you should not
I'll gently rise and I'll softly call
Goodnight and joy be with you all.
Of all good times that e'er we shared,
I leave to you fond memory,
And for all the friendship that e'er we had
I ask you to remember me;
And when you sit and stories tell,
I'll be with you and help recall.
So fill to me the parting glass,
God bless and joy be with you all.

Success

To laugh often and love much;
To win the respect of intelligent persons
And the affection of children;
To earn the approbation of honest critics
And to endure the betrayal of false friends;
To appreciate beauty;
To find the best in others;
To give of one's self;
To leave the world a bit better,
Whether by a healthy child,
A garden patch
Or a redeemed social condition;
To have played and laughed with enthusiasm
And sung with exultation;
To know even one life has breathed easier
Because you have lived -
This is to have succeeded.

Ralph Waldo Emerson (1803 – 1882)

40

When I am gone

When I come to the end of my journey
And I travel my last weary mile.
Just forget if you can, that I ever frowned
And remember only the smile

Forget unkind words I have spoken;
Remember some good I have done.
Forget that I ever had heartache
And remember I've had loads of fun.

Forget that I've stumbled and blundered
And sometimes fell by the way.
Remember I have fought some hard battles
And won, ere the close of the day.

Then forget to grieve for my going,
I would not have you sad for a day,
But in summer just gather some flowers
And remember the place where I lay.

And come in the shade of evening
When the sun paints the sky in the west
Stand for a few moments beside me
And remember only my best

Mrs. Lyman Hancock

41

If I had a voice

If I had a voice today, I'd say
Dear ones, please don't cry,
Still love me but don't grieve for me,
It's easy if you try

Don't think of all that I won't see
Just think of what I've seen
Think not of places I won't go
But remember where I've been

I've lived, I've loved, I've laughed, I've cried
I've worked hard, that's for sure
I've done my best, I'm satisfied
I couldn't ask for more

I know not what becomes of me
Nor what's beyond today
If I had a choice I'd use my voice
But alas I've gone away

You have memories of me to enjoy
Smile, laugh, be tough,
You have loved me and enriched my life
I was happy, that's enough!

On a friend

An honest man here lies at rest
As e'er God with his image blest;
The friend of man, the friend of truth,
The friend of age, and guide of youth:
Few hearts like this, with virtue warm'd
Few heads with knowledge so inform'd:
If there's another world, he lives in bliss;
If there is none, he made the best of this.

Robert Burns (1759 – 1796)

Death is the most profound

Death is the most profound and significant fact of life: it lifts the very last of mortals above the greyness and banality of life.

And only the fact of death puts the question of life's meaning in all its depth.

Life in this world has meaning only because there is death: if there were no death in our world, life would be deprived of meaning.

Meaning is linked with ending. And if there were no end, if in our world there was evil and endlessness there would be no meaning to life whatsoever.

The meaning of man's mortal experience throughout his whole life, lies in putting him into a position to comprehend death.

Nikolai Berdyaev (1784 – 1948)

Words from Bertrand Russell

An individual human existence should be like a river – small at first, narrowly contained within its banks, and rushing passionately past boulders and over waterfalls.

Gradually, the river grows wider, the banks recede, the waters flow more quietly, and – in the end – without any visible break, they become merged in the sea, and painlessly lose their individual being.

The man or woman, who, in old age, can see his or her life in this way,
will not suffer from the fear of death, since the things they care for will continue.

Bertrand Russell (1872 – 1970)

45

For what it is to die

For what it is to die but to stand naked in the wind and to melt into the sun?
And what is it to cease breathing but to free the breath from it's restless tides, that it may rise and expand and seek through unencumbered?
Only when you drink from the river of silence shall you indeed sing.
And when you have reached the mountain top,
then you shall begin to climb.
And when the earth shall reclaim your limbs, then you shall truly dance.

Kahlil Gibran (1883 – 1931)

46

The death of each of us

The death of each of us is in the order of things; it follows life as surely as night follows day. We can take the tree of life as a symbol. The human race is the trunk and branches of this tree, and individual men and women are the leaves, which appear one season, flourish for a summer, and then die. I too am like a leaf of this tree, and one day I shall be torn off by a storm, or simply decay and fall and mingle with the earth at it's roots. But, while I live, I am conscious of the tree's flowing sap and steadfast strength. When I die and fall the tree of life remains, nourished to some small degree by my life. Millions of leaves have preceded me and millions will follow me; but the tree itself grows and endures.

Sir Herbert Read (adapted) (1893 – 1968)

Music, when soft voice die

Music, when soft voice die,
Vibrates in the memory;
Odours, when sweet violets sicken,
Live within the sense they quicken.

Rose leaves, when the rose is dead,
Are heap'd for the beloved's bed;
And so thy thoughts, when thou art gone,
Love itself shall slumber on.

Percy Bysshe Shelley (1792 – 1822)

48

There's a certain slant of light

There's a certain slant of light,
On winter afternoons,
That oppresses, like the weight
Of cathedral tunes.

Heavenly hurt it gives us;
We can find no scar,
But internal difference
Where the meanings are.

None may teach it anything,
'Tis the seal, despair,-
An imperial affliction
Sent us of the air.

When it comes, the landscape listens,
Shadows hold their breath;
When it goes, 't is like the distance
On the look of death.

Emily Dickinson (1830 – 1886)

49

Death is not the end

Death is not the end
but the beginning of a metamorphosis.

For matter is never destroyed, only transformed and rearranged – often more perfectly.

Witness how in the moment of the caterpillar's death the beauty of the butterfly is born and released from the prison of the cocoon it flies free.

Peter Tatchell

50

Life is but a stopping place

Life is but a stopping place
A pause in what's to be
A resting place along the road
To sweet eternity.
We all have different journeys,
Different paths along the way
We all were meant to learn some things
But never meant to stay...
Our destination is a place
Far greater than we know.
For some the journey's quicker
For some the journey's slow.
And when the journey finally ends,
We'll claim a great reward,
And find an everlasting peace,
Together with the Lord

From the antique

The wind shall lull us yet,
The flowers shall spring above us:
And those who hate forget,
And those forgot who love us.

The pulse of hope shall cease,
Of joy and of regretting:
We twain shall sleep in peace,
Forgotten and forgetting.

For us no sun shall rise,
Nor wind rejoice, nor river,
Where we with fast-closed eyes
Shall sleep and sleep for ever.

Christina Rossetti (1830 – 1894)

52

Uphill

Does the road wind up hill all the way?

Yes, to the very end.

Will the day's journey take the whole long day?

From morn to night, my friend.

But is there for the night a resting-place?

A roof for when the slow dark hours begin.

May not the darkness hide it from my face?

You cannot miss that inn.

Shall I meet other wayfarers at night?

Those who have gone before.

Then must I knock, or call when just in sight?

They will not keep you standing at that door.

Shall I find comfort, travel-sore and weary?

Of labour you shall find the sum.

Will there be beds for me and all who seek?

Yes, beds for all who come.

53

Clouds

Down the blue night the unending columns press
In noiseless tumult, break and wave and flow,
Now tread the far South, or lift rounds of snow
Up to the white moon's hidden loveliness.

Some pause in their grave wandering comradeless,
And turn with profound gesture vague and slow,
As who would pray good for the world, but know
Their benediction empty as they bless.

They say that the Dead die not, but remain
Near to the rich heirs of their grief and mirth.
I think they ride the calm mid-heaven, as these,
In wise majestic melancholy train,
And watch the moon, and the still-raging seas,
And men, coming and going on the earth.

Rupert Brooke (1887 – 1915)

Extracts from the writings of Michel de Montaigne

One should always have one's boots on and be ready to leave.

I want death to find me planting my cabbages, but caring little for it, and much more for my imperfect garden.

Wheresoever your life endeth, there is it all.

The profit of life consists not in the space, but rather in the use. Some have lived long who have lived but a short while.

Whether you have lived enough depends upon yourself, not on the number of your years. There is no road that doth not have an end, and, if company is solace, doth not the whole world go the same way?

Michel de Montaigne (1533 – 1592)

55

For Katrina's sun dial

Time is too slow for those who wait,
Too swift for those who fear,
Too long for those who grieve,
Too short for those who rejoice,
But for those who love, time is Eternity.

Henry Van Dyke (1852 – 1933)

56

A reflection on an autumn day

I took up a handful of grain and letting it slip flowing through my fingers, and I said to myself, 'This is what it is all about'.

There is no longer any room for pretence.

At harvest time the essence is revealed

The straw and chaff are set aside, they have done their job.

The grain alone matters – sacks of pure gold.

So it is when a person dies the essence of their life is revealed.

At the moment of death a person's character stands out;

Happy for the person who has forged it well over the years.

Then it will not be the great achievement that will count, nor how Much money or possessions a person has amassed.

These, like the straw and the chaff, will be left behind.

It is what they have made of themselves that will matter.

Death can take away from us what we have,

But it cannot rob us of who we are.

A time for everything

There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under heaven:
a time to be born and a time to die,
a time to plant and a time to uproot,
a time to kill and a time to heal,
a time to tear down and a time to build,
a time to weep and a time to laugh,
a time to mourn and a time to dance,
a time to scatter stones and a time to gather them,
a time to embrace and a time to refrain,
a time to search and a time to give up,
a time to keep and a time to throw away,
a time to tear and a time to mend,
a time to be silent and a time to speak,
a time to love and a time to hate,
a time for war and a time for peace.

Ecclesiastes 3:1-8 (NIV)

A parting guest

What delightful guests are they

Life and Love!

Lingering I turn away,

This late hour, yet glad enough

They have not withheld from me

Their high hospitality.

So with face lit with delight

And all gratitude, I stay

Yet to press their hands and say,

“Thanks. So fine a time! Goodnight.”

James Whitcomb Riley (1849 – 1916)

59

Happy the man

Happy the man, and happy he alone,

He who can call today his own.

He who, secure within, can say,

Tomorrow do thy worst, for I have lived today.

Be fair or foul or rain or shine

The joys I have possessed, in spite of fate, are mine.

Not Heaven itself upon the past has power,

But what has been, has been, and I have had my hour.

John Dryden (1631 – 1700)

Leisure

What is this life if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and stare.
No time to stand beneath the boughs
And stare as long as sheep or cows.
No time to see, when woods we pass,
Where squirrels hide their nuts in grass.
No time to see, in broad daylight,
Streams full of stars, like skies at night.
No time to turn at Beauty's glance,
And watch her feet, how they can dance.
No time to wait till her mouth can Enrich that smile her eyes began.
A poor life this if, full of care,
We have no time to stand and stare.

William Henry Davies (1871 – 1940)

High flight

Oh! I have slipped the surly bonds of earth
And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings;
Sunward I've climbed, and joined the tumbling mirth
Of sun-split clouds - and done a hundred things
You have not dreamed of – wheeled and soared and swung High in the sunlit silence. Hov'ring there,
I've chased the shouting wind along, and flung

My eager craft through footless halls of air...

Up, up the long, delirious burning blue
I've topped the windswept heights with easy grace
Where never lark, or ever eagle flew.
And, while with silent, lifting mind I've trod
The high untrespassed sanctity of space,
Put out my hand, and touched the face of God.

John Gillespie McGee Jr (1922 – 1941)

62

Gaily I lived

Gaily I lived as ease and nature taught,
And spent my little life without a thought,
And am amazed that Death, that tyrant grim,
Should think of me, who never thought of him.

René Francois Regnier (1794 – 1881)

63

Only we who grieve

Tis only we who grieve

They do not leave

They are not gone

They look upon us still

They walk among the valleys now

They stride upon the hill

Their smile is in the summer sky

Their grace is in the breeze

Their memories whisper in the grass

Their calm is in the trees

Their light is in the winter snow

Their tears are in the rain

Their merriment runs in the brook

Their laughter in the lane

Their gentleness is in the flowers

They sigh in autumn leaves

They do not leave

They are not gone

Tis only we who grieve

If I should go tomorrow

If I should go tomorrow
It would never be goodbye
For I have left my heart with you,
So don't you ever cry.
The love that's deep within me,
Shall reach you from the stars,
You'll feel it from the heavens,
And it will heal the scars.

His journey's just begun

Don't think of him as gone away –
His journey's just begun,
Life holds so many facets –
This earth is only one.

Just think of him as resting
From the sorrows and the tears
In a place of warmth and comfort
Where there are no days and years.

Think how he must be wishing
That we could know today
How nothing but our sadness
Can really pass away.

And think of him as living
In the hearts of those he touched
For nothing loved is ever lost –
And he was loved so much

Miss me but let me go

When I come to the end of the road,
And the sun has set for me.
I want no rites in a gloom-filled room
Why cry for a soul set free?
Miss me a little – but not too long,
And not with your head bowed low.
Remember the love that we once shared,
Miss me – but let me go.
For this is a journey that we all must take,
And each must go alone,
It is all part of nature's plan,
A step on the road to home.
When you are lonely and sick of heart,
Go to the friends we know,
And bury your sorrows in doing good deeds.
Miss me but let me go.

Prayer of faith

We trust that beyond absence there is a presence.

That beyond the pain there can be healing.

That beyond the brokenness there can be wholeness.

That beyond the anger there may be peace.

That beyond the hurting there may be forgiveness

That beyond the silence there may be the word.

That beyond the word there may be understanding.

That through understanding there is love.

Death for one ought not mean death for two

Death for one ought not mean death for two.

We cannot die of grief unless we will.

Love requires us to love life still,

Lest love be less than life and death are due.

We cannot choose but choose for others, too,

For what we choose does what we are distill,

And open fields with inner sweetness fill,

That those who pass might hope or faith renew.

So may your love for loved ones that remain

Bring you through this season of despair

To some unquiet, sad, but gentle spring.

Emerging from your chrysalis of pain,

May you find a new world blossomed there

With new songs bittersweet that pleasure bring.

Acceptance

There is an end to grief
Suddenly there are no more tears to cry
No hurt nor break now
But mute acceptance of what will be
Knowing that each move for good or ill
Must fit the whole
Past comprehension
Yet trusted in the design
This way lies peace.

70

No mourning by request

Come not to mourn for me with solemn tread
Clad in dull weeds of sad and sable hue,
Nor weep because of my tale of life's told through,
Casting light dust on my troubled head.
Nor linger near me while the sexton fills
My grave with earth – but so gay garlanded.
And in your halls a shining banquet spread
And gild your chambers o'er with daffodils.

Fill your tall goblets with white wine and red,
And sing brave songs of gallant love and true,
Wearing soft robes of emerald and blue,
And dance, as I your dances oft have led,
And laugh, as I have often laughed with you –
And be most merry – after I am dead.

Winifred Holtby (1898 – 1935)

71

Had I the heaven's embroidered cloths

Had I the heavens' embroidered cloths,
Enwrought with golden and silver light,
The blue and the dim and the dark cloths
Of night and light and the half light,
I would spread the cloths under your feet:
But I, being poor, have only my dreams;
I have spread my dreams under your feet;
Tread softly because you tread on my dreams.

W.B. Yeats (1865 – 1939)

72

The intention

Healing is both an exercise and an understanding, and yet not of the will nor of the intention.

It is wisdom and a deeper knowledge of the daily swing of life and death in all creation.

There is defeat to overcome and acceptance of living to be established, and always there must be hope.

Not hope of healing but the hope which informs the coming moment and gives it's reason.

The hope which is each man's breath, the certainty of love and of loving.

Death may live in the living and healing rise in the dying, for whom the natural end is part of the gathering, and of the harvest to be expected.

To know healing is to know that all life is one,
and there is no beginning and no end, and the intention is loving.

Margaret Torrie (1912 – 1999)

73

May time soften your pain

In times of darkness, love sees...

In time of silence, love hears...

In times of doubt, love hopes...

In times of sorrow, love heals...

And in all times, love remembers.

May time soften the pain

Until all that remains

Is the warmth of the memories

And the love.

74

Your grief

Your grief for what you've lost lifts a mirror up to where you're bravely working.

Expecting the worst, you look and instead,
here's the joyful face you've been wanting to see.

Your hand opens and closes and opens and closes.
If it were always a fist or always stretched open,
you would be paralyzed.

Your deepest presence is in every small contracting and expand the two as beautifully balanced and coordinated as birdwings.

Jalaluddin Rumi (1207 – 1273)

75

Remember me

Do not shed tears when I have gone but smile instead because I have lived.

Do not shut your eyes and pray to God that I'll come back but open your eyes and see all that I have left behind.

I know your heart will be empty because you cannot see me but still I want you to be full of the love we shared.

You can turn your back on tomorrow and live only for yesterday or you can be happy for tomorrow because of what happened between us yesterday.

You can remember me and grieve that I have gone or you can cherish my memory and let it live on.

You can cry and lose yourself, become distraught and turn your back on the world or you can do what I want - smile, wipe away the tears, learn to love again and go on.

David Harkins

76

Weep not

So, weep not for me when I am gone,
For I have lived to see and feel
The sun rise brilliant yellow above the sea
And set in golden glory over distant fields.

And watched the angry sea lash with Giant waves, the rocky cliffs,
And, in calmer mood, lap gently up
The sandy beach.

I have smelt the fragrant scent of rose and lilac,
Of honeysuckle and new mown grass,
The pungent smell of fresh sawn cedar wood and pine,
And the salty breeze, spume-blown and foam edged North Sea breakers.

Then weep not for me,
No greater experience can be mine.

A silent tear

Just close your eyes and you will see
All the memories that you have of me
Just sit and relax and you will find
I'm really still there inside your mind

Don't cry for me now I'm gone
For I am in the land of song
There is no pain, there is no fear
So dry away that silent tear

Don't think of me in the dark and cold
For here I am, no longer old
I'm in that place that's filled with love
Known to you all, as "up above"

When at heart you should be sad

When at heart you should be sad,
Pondering the joys we had,
Listen and keep very still.
If the lowing from the hill
Or the tolling of a bell
Do not serve to break the spell,
Listen: you may be allowed
To hear my laughter from a cloud.

Sir Walter Raleigh, Explorer (1554 –1618)

79

The instinct of hope

Is there another world for this frail dust
To warm with life and be itself again?
Something about me daily speaks there must,
And why should instinct nourish hopes in vain?
'Tis nature's prophesy that such will be,
And everything seems struggling to explain
The close sealed volume of its mystery.
Time wandering onward keeps its usual pace
As seeming anxious of eternity,
To meet that calm and find a resting place.
E'en the small violet feels a future power
And waits each year renewing blooms to bring,
And surely man is no inferior flower
To die unworthy of a second spring?

John Clare (1793 – 1864)

80

For Winter's rain

For winter's rains and ruins are over,
And all the season of snows and sins;
The days dividing lover and lover,
The light that loses, the night that wins;
And time remembered is grief forgotten,
And frosts are slain and flowers begotten,
And in green underwood and cover
Blossom by blossom the spring begins.

Algernon Charles Swinburne (1837 – 1909)

Don't make me a hero when I'm gone

I went to a funeral today.

Someone who obviously knew the family well

Stood to 'say a few words'.

Well, the lady in the coffin was hardly recognisable!

She'd been so unbelievably good at everything

It's a wonder anyone liked her at all.

So don't make me a hero when I'm gone.

There'll be good things about me to miss

And some not so good, which you'll be better off without

So keep things in balance.

Whatever you do, have a laugh.

I've loved tears of laughter rolling down my cheeks

Tummy aching with hilarity

Always made me feel better about things.

So have a good laugh

It'll do you good –

And don't make me a hero when I'm gone.

Turn again to life

If I should die and leave you here awhile, be not like others, sore undone, who keep long vigils by silent dust.

For my sake, turn again to life and smile, nerving they heart and trembling hand to do something to comfort weaker hearts than thine.
Complete these dear unfinished tasks of mine.
And I perchance may therein comfort you.

Mary Lee Hall (1843 – 1927)

83

For these once mine

With you a part of me hath passed away;
For in the peopled forest of my mind
A tree made leafless by this wintry wind
Shall never don again its green array.
Chapel and fireside, country road and bay,
Have something of their friendliness resigned;
Another, if I would, I could not find,
And I am grown much older in a day.
But yet I treasure in my memory
Your gift of charity, and mellow ease,
And the dear honour of your amity;
For these once mine, my life is rich with these.
And I scarce know which part may greater be,—
What I keep of you, or you rob of me.

George Santayana (1863 – 1952)

Remember

Remember me when I am gone away,
Gone far away into the silent land;
When you can no more hold me by the hand,
Nor I half turn to go yet, turning stay.
Remember me when no more day by day
You tell me of our future that you plann'd:
Only remember me; you understand
It will be late to counsel then or pray.
Yet if you should forget me for a while
And afterwards remember, do not grieve:
For if the darkness and corruption leave
A vestige of the thoughts that once I had,
Better by far you should forget and smile
Than that you should remember and be sad.

Christina Rossetti (1830 – 1894)
